Vasil (prostate cancer)

68 years

After short-time massive urinal infection and following complex medical investigation I was diagnosed with prostate cancer in 2004. I knew nothing about this cancer when it happened to me yet it is the second most common male cancer in the world. I have been encouraged by my urologist and friends to build up the public organisation of patient, survivors, urologist, medical sisters and supporters for fight against cancer and other illnesses of prostate.
